

BROADCAST PLAYER

Whilst digital signage is a great way to communicate with your team within an office or workspace environment, how do you ensure remote workers (especially at times of crisis) are kept informed and up to date with the latest messages from you and your organisation?

The Broadcast Player allows the publishing of digital signage content to a single web URL. The resulting URL can then be shared with any number of people for them to view in their browser, regardless of the device they are using. This can be existing content that is distributed through your digital signage or dedicated content just for your broadcast player.

IDEAL FOR:

Communicating key messages to all colleagues to keep everyone informed using a unique URL. All supported player content - except for video files (Youtube is still acceptable) and can be used by an unlimited number of users.

REQUIREMENT:

To develop a new product that would enable organisations to create and send messages to laptops, tablets and mobile phones of staff who are out of office or on the road.

“A complete corporate digital signage platform that makes an effective communication tool .”
